small states when it comes to a question of making war. The "navy" of the particular power referred to consists of a single old-fashioned whale boat, and the crew is composed in time of peace solely of engaged in hauling freight up and down the river which runs close to the capital.

At the outbreak of one of the previous wars and during the very first of the present war, the president of the republic took charge of the steamer and started up stream as a recruiting station for volunteers. His senior general in charge of the military preparations at the capital. A couple of days later the steamer was captured, and some severely miserable looking recruits were taken aboard. With a strong rope, were marched off and turned over to the general, with a note from the President's secretary.

Dear General—I send you herewith twenty volunteers. Please make use of them as soon.

DAILY RENOVATOR.

A distinguished member of the United States judiciary has discovered that he still has considerable knowledge in the direction of agriculture.

He bought a farm as a summer home for his family and last year he took delight in walking about the place, converting all the residents of the neighborhood in many ways about the most important in his own possession.

One evening, during the summer he was strolling over the farm. The hired man had cut the grass during the day and very early in the morning he was out on the ground to dry. The judge saw him, and, calling him to him, said:

"It seems to me you are very careless. Why haven't you been more particular in taking up the grass? Don't you see that you have left little drifts of it all around?"

For a minute the hired man stood, wondering if the judge was kidding him. Then he replied:

"Little driftings? Why, man, that's the crop!"
